SPANISH CUBAN ADVICES

Céspedes' Party Was Not as Large as at First Stated.

PROOF OF SPAIN'S DESIRE

She Does Not Want to Embroil Herself with the United States—The Trouble in the Island Is Over She Will Propose a New Treaty With This Country.

Unofficial cable advices from Havana this morning contain the intelligence that Carlos Manuel Céspedes, who landed in Cuba several days ago, was accompanied by only seven men, and not by one hundred and seven, as has been reported.

Some surprise is expressed that Céspedes should have landed in this city. He is a son of the first Cuban President, who held that office during the prevalence of the Cuban revolution in the latter years ago. He is a young man twenty-two years of age. He was educated in Paris, and several of his school friends are connected with the Spanish legation in this city.

He has occupied until his recent return to New York the most friendly relations with the Spanish diplomatic representatives abroad, and he was not suspected of having any sympathy with the Cuban rebellion.

It is believed that he has identified himself with the Cuban cause in the hope that the prestige of his name would influence others, who are hesitating, to take a passive loyalty to the Spanish crown.

It is known that Céspedes sailed from New York for Havana on the steamer "Albatross," which plies between New York, Philadelphia and Jamaica.

He and his traveling companions were sent ashore in a small boat by the steamer "Albatross," which plies between New York, Philadelphia and Jamaica.

Strong proof of Spain's desire not to embroil herself with the United States is found in the dispatches from Madrid, which state that the Spanish government has decided to propose a new treaty with this country.

It is understood that Spain, after the present disturbance in Cuba, will propose to the United States a new treaty which will provide that no foreign subject of the Spanish crown shall be entitled to recognition by Spanish authorities as an American citizen unless he has been previously recognized by the United States.

COURT SENSATION.

Freeman-Westinghouse Patent Case Calls for Jury Inquiry.

San Francisco, Nov. 1.—The strong arm of the United States Government has been extended to stop the constant quarreling of the attorneys and principals in the Freeman-Westinghouse patent case that has been dragging on for years.

The charges of bribery, subornation of perjury, conspiracy, intimidation of witnesses and other matters that have been freely bandied about in Judge Peacock's court will be inquired into, as well as the carrying of revolvers by Attorney Mackay and Wallace F. Freeman in the courtroom, an incident that caused intense excitement Saturday last.

Alexander H. Freeman, who was seriously injured in the fracas between the two attorneys Saturday evening, is still in a critical condition, and fears are entertained for his life.

MISS FLAGLER IS NOT HERE

It is Believed the Young Lady is in Baltimore.

Her Father Also Is in Philadelphia. Some Colored People Criticize the Grand Jury.

Gen. Flagler, the father of Miss Elizabeth M. Flagler, the young lady who shot and instantly killed Ernest Green for stealing a horse, is in Philadelphia at the residence of his daughter, and is believed to be in Baltimore.

It is said that a plot against the grand jury for returning a verdict of manslaughter, which would have resulted in a bill of murder and a life term, was discovered by the grand jury.

Those who oppose the mass-meeting arranged for Saturday evening at the residence of Miss Flagler and this again for the sympathy of the people. They also contend that it would injure the prospects of a conviction.

MRS. PITEZEL IN AGONY

Becomes Suddenly Hysterical and Is Led Away Screaming.

QUEER BOOK IN EVIDENCE

Holmes' Own Story Presented, and Its Author, a Newspaper Writer, Testifies That the Manuscript Was Received From Mr. Shoemaker, One of the Attorneys for the Defense.

Philadelphia, Nov. 1.—The defense in the Holmes trial will be made today. This would be the defense, but it was postponed for several days by the request made by Holmes' attorneys.

That Pitezel committed suicide is the only defense that could be offered, as Holmes has admitted that he was at the house the day the man died, and that he found his body and arranged for its removal.

Holmes' attorneys refuse to say whether or not they will put the account upon the stand, but it is understood that they will, as the prisoner is anxious to testify.

The trial opened with more promptness this morning than any day yet. Holmes still retains his unflinching appearance and shows no effect of the strain he has undergone.

Mrs. Pitezel was the first witness placed upon the stand. She testified that she was at the house the day the man died, and that she found his body and arranged for its removal.
